The Interview. 400 pieces of pure linen lawn, which we shall offer this week in three grand lots. Question—Have you considered the late bill passed by the General Assembly of the State for the settlement of the State debt?

Answer—I have thought much about it. Having exerted myself during the last canvass to reconcile the Democracy of West Tennessee to the moderate terms of settlement declared for in the last State convention, the settlement finally adopted greatly disappointed me, and has caused me deep mortification. It subjected all who addressed the people, from my standpoint, to the sus-Lot No. 1 will contain 100 pieces linen lawn never before sold for less than 124c. Ans.—I have no confidence in any succe 40 pcs finest quality white linen from that quarter. It is not even as plausible as O'Conor's suit against the railroads to make them pay the bondholders, after they had settled with the State, who alone was every fiber linen guaranteed, at 25c, worth their principal and to whom alone the rail-roads were responsible. It is simply absurd to conceive that the courts have the power to interfere with a public act of the Legislature 500 pes of new figured lawn, all at 5c p

The Legislature is co-ordinate with the Judiciary, and expresses by far the larger part of the sovereignty of the State. The Legislature has as much right to declare that I case Simpson's solid black prints at only the court is influenced in its decision by cor-ruption, as the court has to declare that the Legislature was induced by bribery to pass a public act. Thus the contest is reduced to the absurd sequel of an exchange of crimi-nation and recrimination between two co-orworth 10c per vd. dinate branches of the Government. Besides, how can a court vacate an act, that may be all right, though procured by corruption?

A legislator may be bribed to vote right, as children sometimes are bribed to behave themselves. Lord Bacon admitted taking bribes, but insisted that he had always decided the cases right. Nor were his accusers ever able to gainsay this. Hence, again there is the further absurd consequences of having a court to surpervise the HAMMOCKS! HAMMOCKS! of having a court to surpervise the policy, expediency, or virtue of a legislative act. Who ever heard of such a preposterous proposition?
